BOSTON — Massachusetts Department of Conservation and Recreation (DCR) Commissioner Leo Roy today announced that “My Community, My Trees” will serve as the theme for the agency’s fifth grade Arbor Day Poster Contest. Fifth graders from around the state enrolled in both public and private schools are encouraged to participate in the annual Arbor Day Poster Contest by creating posters highlighting this year's theme. Schools are then asked to host a poster contest to determine the winner. The winning poster from each school can then be submitted to the agency for review. Additionally, home schooled or non-participating school students may submit their posters and enter the contest individually.

"The many benefits of trees improve our daily lives, and I'm thrilled that each year fifth graders demonstrate that importance by participating in the Department of Conservation and Recreation's annual Arbor Day Poster Contest," said DCR Commissioner Leo Roy. "I look forward to 2018's creative entries from students throughout the Commonwealth highlighting this year's theme 'My Community, My Trees.'"

First place prizes for the DCR Arbor Day Poster Contest include a tree planting ceremony at the winner's school, a certificate for art and science supplies, and more. Second Place, Third Place, and Honorable Mention winners will also receive art and science supplies.

Trees offer many benefits to the environment, which include:

- The reduction in energy consumption;
- The cleansing of both water and air;
- The reduction of noise pollution;
- The beautification of communities; and,
- The providing of habitats for wildlife.

This year's theme, "My Community, My Trees" is designed to highlight the importance of trees within Massachusetts' communities and diverse landscapes throughout the state. Additionally, the Arbor Day Poster Contest combines both art and science in an effort to instill the vital role trees have on the public's daily lives.

The DCR Urban and Community Forestry Program, with support from the U.S. Forest Service, sponsors the annual contest for fifth graders across the Commonwealth. Posters must be submitted by March 15, 2018, and the contest is open to all students currently enrolled in the fifth grade.
